Macro Commentary

June began calmly but was soon impacted by renewed volatility following the outbreak of conflict between Israel and Iran on 13 June, which later drew in the United States. By the end of the month, a ceasefire had been reached. Despite the escalation, most markets remained relatively stable. Defensive sectors and commodities saw brief gains, while broader equity markets held up, supported by solid economic fundamentals.

The Australian share market rose modestly in June, with the ASX 200 up 1.42%. Although tensions in the Middle East influenced commodity prices, investors largely looked through the longer-term implications. Sector performance varied: Energy (up 9.01%) and Financials (up 4.28%) delivered strong gains, while Materials (down 3.11%) and Consumer Staples (down 2.31%) underperformed.

Australian economic data was mixed. The May unemployment rate remained at 4.1%, with underemployment steady at 5.9%. Consumer sentiment, measured by the Westpac-Melbourne Institute Index, fell 3.5% to 82.7 in May, marking a third straight monthly decline. GDP data released in June showed annual growth of just 1.1% for the March quarter, down from 1.5%. This raised expectations that the Reserve Bank of Australia may cut rates by the third quarter.

In the United States, the S&P 500 gained 4.94% in June, breaking through 6,000 and finishing the month above 6,204. This strength came despite continued geopolitical risks and uncertainty over trade policy. The Federal Reserve left rates unchanged, with markets now expecting one rate cut in the fourth quarter as inflation continues to ease.

Tariff settings remained unchanged during the month, but focus is shifting to the 9 July deadline, when a 90-day pause on the "Liberation Day" tariffs ends. Without further agreements, the original tariffs could be reinstated. Late in June, the U.S. government announced new trade deals with China and signalled possible agreements with the European Union and India.

President Trump's "One Big Beautiful Bill," which includes tax cuts, border security funding, and reforms to social programs, continued through the Senate after narrowly passing the House. Trump aims to sign the bill by 4 July. It is projected to add around USD 3.8 trillion to national debt over the next decade.

Oil prices briefly rose above USD 88.00 per barrel early in June amid concerns over supply disruptions through the Strait of Hormuz. Prices eased later in the month as those fears subsided. OPEC+ kept production steady, and its upcoming July meeting is expected to address further supply stability. An increase in output from key producers in August is under consideration.

Gold remained a popular safe haven. After briefly rising above USD 3,500 per ounce, it ended June lower at USD 3,303.16. The price movement reflected shifting levels of global risk throughout the month.

Looking forward, markets will remain focused on trade negotiations and developments in the Middle East. In this uncertain environment, we continue to prioritise long-term, diversified portfolios supported by strong economic fundamentals.

Holdings Commentary

Equities and bonds continued their rally into June, with several global equity markets reaching new all-time highs.

In Australian equities, oil and gas producer Santos (STO) rose 16.24% during the month following an unsolicited takeover offer from the Abu Dhabi National Oil Company (ADNOC) at approximately $8.89 AUD per share - valuing the company at around $30 billion. Santos closed the month at $7.66, up 70 cents from its pre-offer price but still $1.23 below the bid, implying the market assigns roughly a one-in-three chance of the deal proceeding. While ADNOC's bid appears strategically sound given Santos' asset base and regional positioning, significant regulatory and political hurdles remain, particularly given the sensitivities around a foreign state acquiring one of Australia's largest oil producers.

In global equities, the iShares Asia 50 ETF (IAA) climbed 8.10% for the month, driven by strong gains across technology and semiconductor stocks. Its largest holding, Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Company (TSMC), rose 9.54% in AUD terms. TSMC reported May revenues of USD $10.8 billion - a 40% year-on-year increase, though slightly below April's figure. Investor sentiment was further buoyed by comments from TSMC Chairman and CEO C.C. Wei, who projected record earnings and revenue for the year, supporting share price momentum.
